Harding Misses Arctic Circle by 150 Miles

President Half Over His Inspection Tour of Resources and Conditions in Alaska

Fairbanks, Alaska, July 16. — One hundred and fifty miles south of the Arctic Circle, the farthest north that any government official has ever penetrated, President Harding turned south today and started on his long journey back to the seacoast. The return trip is to be extended over several days.

With half of his inspection trip into the industrial and mining regions of Alaska over, President Harding found Fairbanks a picturesque town whose frame shacks and pretentious store fronts were a reminder of the movies. The town turned itself inside out to entertain the presidential party. Flags were banked on every street and everything was dressed up.

The official party is to split at Fairbanks with the President and some others to go "flivvering" over the Richardson trail to McCarty, 90 miles away while others of the party including Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Secretary of Interior Work will go back by train to Anchorage, where they will hold public hearings on some grievances that Alaskan business men have to air.

FORD AND WRAY DOING FINE WORK

AT CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION, SAYS G. A. PICKENS

WORK IS PROGRESSING

Will Adjourn By September, Pickens Believes—Delegates Backing the Greater Missouri Association

"No county in the state is better represented at the Constitutional Convention with efficient, hard working delegates than Nodaway County," declared Geo. A. Pickens, acting general secretary of the Greater Missouri Association, this morning. Mr. Pickens' work has taken him to Jefferson City several times and placed him in contact with the leaders in the code parley, and on every hand, he says, he heard nothing but the highest praise for the ability and sincerity of M. E. Ford and Ernest Wray of this county.

"They are doing a piece of work there that the people of Nodaway County never will fully appreciate," continued Mr. Pickens. "They are working, staying on the job and doing everything they can for Missouri and for Nodaway County. They are fighting like Turks that everything going into the new code will be good and beneficial to the people of the state. Nodaway County is certainly fortunate in having two such men as their representatives in Jefferson City.'

There are only two dirt farmers in the convention, says Mr. Pickens and they are Paul Culver of Buchanan County and Ernest Wray of Nodaway, and Mr. Pickens declare they are always on the job in seeing to the interests of the farmers in the new code

Mr. Pickens, after talking to some of the leaders of the convention was of the opinion that the convention would not be able to adjourn until about September. While the convention is costing a lot of money, he says, when the new code is adopted, its savings in a year will almost pay for the cost of the convention.

In speaking of his work with the Greater Missouri Association, Mr. Pickens said that the delegates to the convention were enthusiastic about the work of the new organization. "It is what we have needed all the time," They declared, "For it knows no class no creed, nor politics and works only for the good of Missouri.

Mr. Pickens, accompanied by J. F. Hul, president of the Board of Directors will return to St. Louis tomorrow night to attend a meeting of the board of directors of the association.

LACK OF TRAINING CHILDREN IN HOME

PARENTS SHOULD TAKE JOB SERIOUSLY, SAYS SNODGRASS

MUST LIMIT MARRIAGE

Physical Examination Should be Required of all Applicants for Marriage License, He Says

"There is a notable lack of child training in our homes today, and this is the indictment we bring against the modern parent," said the Rev. R. E. Snodgrass in his sermon on, "What's the matter with our homes," at the Christian Church last night.

"The job of parenthood is not taken seriously enough," he continued. "We have thoroughbred horses, cattle, dogs, apples, potatoes, in fact everything but thoroughbred children. Parents are turning the job of child training over to others, to Sunday School teachers, day school teachers, nurses or to the fate of the street. In our mad rush of civilization these days, the child does not get the parental training it deserves."

Parents should be companions to their children, the Christian Church minister contended. He said that the father should be a pal of his son and the mother a chum of her daughter.

"Parents are training their children in the lesser things of life," he added. "I know mothers who would much rather sacrifice to keep her child from missing a dancing lesson than from missing church service on Sunday morning. There are a large number of parents who are careful to teach their children the correct dress of society and how to be entertaining. They hire instructors on etiquette, dancing, and games but who ever heard of the average parent hiring special religious instructors to bring the children up in the nurture and admonitions of the Lord?

The Reverend Mr. Snodgrass said that parents should train their children for the greater things of life such as marriage, honesty, joy and religion.

That the greatest need of the world today is Christian mothers was the contention of the Reverend Mr. Snodgrass. The old-fashioned mother is the ideal woman, he said. The two types of womanhood are the mothers and the sirens. The second type sacrifices everything for power; power to rule by smiles, by beauty and charm. These women are the ones who infest our divorce courts, the Christian Church minister asserted.

"There are two types of fathers," he continued. "One says, 'run on to Sunday School and church,' and the boy goes swimming or loafing. The other says, 'Come on now and let us be off to church,' and they are happy in each other's company as they trot off in answer to the church bell's ring. When I see children and young people leaving the church house after Sunday school, oftentimes, usually, I might say with the full consent of the parents, if not in the company of the parents, I am wondering about the church of the future. No home is complete without Christ in it. This is the supreme thing."

The Edwards and the Jukes families were cited as examples of the transfer of blooded characteristics; the one family is made up of influential citizens such as bankers, lawyers, doctors, missionaries, ministers, authors and others of great capacity. The Jukes family is made up of murderers, thieves, paupers, robbers and others of the undesirable type.

This shows the necessity for more stringent marriage laws, the Reverend Mr. Snodgrass contended. No mental or physical bankrupt has a right to marry, he said. A physical examination should be required before a marriage license is issued, Snodgrass added.

EVEN THE STRONG NEED CHRISTIANITY

IS RELIGION OF COMFORT

Christianity Has Been a Religion of Peace and Consolation—Good Crowd at Union Services.

"The Christian religion has a message not only for the weak and those that need cheer, but to the strong and powerful as well," said the Rev. J. A. Cooper at the union services at the Baptist church last night.

"Christianity is the religion of comfort," he continued; "it is the religion of peace and of consolation. Those who have tried it know. The most popular hymns are those of comfort and consolation. All Christian poetry that is the most popular, voices the same sentiment."

In his sermon he also said that all through the ages the hymns that have stood the test of time are of two types. One of which brings cheer and comfort to those who are poor and in misery. But we also have another class, the one that brings power and zeal to the individual.

"Many people never think of calling on religion in the joyous times but all ask the minister to come to their home in the time of sorrows," he continued. "The world knows that if Jack Dempsey in his recent boxing match had been knocked out and seriously injured that the Christian religion would have been ready to go to his bedside administering aid. But what we want to know, if our religion is to stand the test of time is if it has a message for Jack Dempsey as he steps into the arena. If it has a message for the powerful King or to all of us in the time of power and of joy."

Mr. Cooper then showed that Christ that is with us in the hour of need is also present on the side of right on the battlefield. That Jesus, that peaceful loving man who inspires the lives of men of all times by his actions, is the same man that is mentioned in the Bible as taking a whip and driving the money changers out of the temple. It is easy enough to appeal to your God in the time of need but do we always think of him in the time when we are powerful and all things look promising?" he asked.

Mr. Cooper then stated that if the world is to be saved in the future it will pe saved by the men who are in power and the young blood of the nation instead of on the sick bed.

A good crowd attended the union service last night, which was held indoors on account of the threatening weather. Orchestra music was furnished by an orchestra under the direction of C. D. Kutschinski and a solo was given by Miss Opal Kent of Albany. An attempt was made to take a vote to ascertain the desires of the congregation in holding future union services indoors or out, but the crowd seemed indifferent in expressing itself.

Hopkins Loses Fast Game to New Market

The fast Hopkins team was defeated yesterday by the New Market nine 2 to 1, at Hopkins. The Hopkins aggregation counted first in the fourth frame and the Iowans came back in the sixth and tied the count. A fluke home-run by Boyer of the New Market team brought in the winning tally in the seventh inning.

The game, from the stand, was a pitcher's battle between Dixon and Boyer, three hits being garnered off of each pitcher. Dixon, pitching for Hopkins, struck out nine men and Boyer, the New Market hurler fanned six. The game was played in one hour and twenty minutes and was featured by spectacular playing on both sides, Boyer receiving the better support from his mates.

The batteries for Hopkins were Dixon and Carmichael; for New Market, Boyer and Smith. Hopkins will play at Burlington Junction next Sunday.

PHILIPPINE CABINET RESIGNS TOGETHER

ONLY ONE MEMBER STAYS

ference All Cabinet Members But One Vote to Resign. Members But One Vote to Resign.

Manilla, July 16—Following an almost continuous conference for forty-eight hours at the home of Manuel C. Quezon, president of the Senate and Filipino political leader, the cabinet, with the exception of vice-governor, Eugene A. Gilmore, who is also secretary of public instruction, signed a document tendering their resignation today to the government of Governor General Leonard Wood.

This makes a crisis in the relations between the governor general and the Phillipine government which has been strained for so many months and presents a problem that only Congress of the President may be able to solve.

There has been a growing hostility of the Filipino political leaders to Governor Leonard Wood for the past two months. The first step towards an actual break came Saturday night when Jose P. Laurel, secretary of the interior resigned. The action came following the re-instatement of Ray Conley, an American chief of secret service after he had been cleared of bribery charges.

No action has been taken upon the resignations as yet by Governor General Wood.

ANGLO-FRENCH BREAK NEARER

FRENCH OFFICE EXPLAINS

Foreign Office Says Premier Speech Was Written Before Saturday—British Press in Condemnation.

London, July 16—The end of the Anglo-French Entente has been brought appreciably nearer by Premier Poincare's Sunday speech, according to widespread opinion in Great Britain today. The speech apparently ends any hope that Great Britain will be able to continue to cooperate with France upon the reparation issue. British newspapers are almost unanimous in denouncing the French premier's declarations.

"Premier Poincare tells us in advance of his intentions to reject the British reply to Germany and declares that France intends to hold the Ruhr," said the London Chronicle, personal organ of the former premier, David Lloyd George.

"Poincare said that France would concede nothing and made it plain that Great Britain must follow where he dictates. France is prosperous but refuses to pay any of her debts. Meanwhile Premier Poincare tells us that France is suffering but she is unmindful of Italy and Belgium, who as well as ourselves, bear the burden of the great war. She smashes the trade of Europe and paralyze industry and she keeps tens of thousands of workers idle. She continues to tear up the Versailles Treaty by her own actions. How can we preserve the entente under such circumstances?'

Paris, July 16—A statement designed to conciliate Great Britain was issued at the foreign office here today within less than twenty-four hours after Premier Poincare had delivered an aggressive reparation speech at Senlis yesterday.

The Poincare speech, it was declared, had been written before Premier Stanley Baldwin had made his statement in the House of Commons in London and therefore could not be considered a reply to the British. The Senlis speech yesterday vigorously rejected the reparation suggestions made here-to-fore by Premier Baldwin.

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN NODAWAY COUNTY

ICE CREAM "SODY"

Every country has its own favorite food. The English, for instance, are said to be a nation of beef-eaters, the Chinese rice eaters. From the habits of the American people, particularly as observed on a warm summer day, it might be said that our national food is ice cream soda, or "sody" as millions of people affectionately call it.

The thirst for all kinds of soft drinks and frozen concoctions has taken possession of the American throat. One can only guess how many times a day folks line up in front of the fountain and ice cream counters.

Some injure their digestion by a surplus of sweets. And some spend more of the family income in this way than is justified, but there seems to be something in our active and intense temperament that calls for these cooling foods and drinks. Now, if the American people will only acquire sweet tempers in proportion to the amount of physical sweetness they consume, they ought to be able to get along with each other amicably and happily.

GOOD ALIEN AMERICANS

Much complaint has been made of "hyphenated Americans," alien newcomers who remain more loyal to their native land than to their new home. But the majority of immigrants are not of that type. The recent reports of the July Fourth celebrations suggest that in many places the alien residents entered into these observances with deep sympathy for the real significance of the day.

To many an immigrant from countries where human rights have been ignored or lightly viewed, a land of freedom and liberty like America seems like a paradise. They glory in their new home, and want to keep it true to the ideals of their friends. Men and women of that type are welcome here, though they are without means other than are honest heart and willing hands.

THE PEACE SPIRIT

Edward Bok of Philadelphia has aroused interest by a generous offer of a $100,000 prize for the best plan by which the United States might cooperate with other countries for the preservation of world peace. While a great deal may be done toward this noble purpose by some well matured project, yet after all world peace is primarily a matter of the spirit existing among the peoples. When the nations of the world all want peace, and will make sacrifices to get it, there will be universal and lasting peace.

Differences between individuals are settled by compromise and the conciliatory spirit, and differences between nations must be harmonized in the same way.

COOL THEATRE SPURNED BY CHILLY CHICAGOANS

Chicago, July 16.—If farmers whose crops have suffered think they alone were hard hit by the coolness and frequent rains of this freakish summer, it may do them good to know that another class right here in Chicago suffered nearly as much.

They are the owners of movie theaters, restaurants, dance ballrooms and the like who went to great pains and expense at the beginning of the summer to advertise their places as "seventy degrees cool inside." Many elaborate signs were painted, some with electrical devices attached. Now the chilly populace shivers and hurries past when it reads one of these signs.

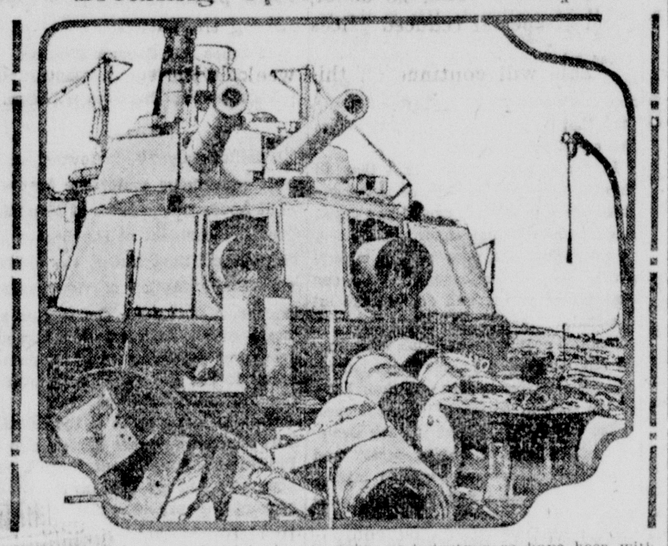
Breaking Up Fine British Ships



Nearly a hundred British dreadnaughts and destroyers have been withdrawn from service and have been sold by auction for breaking up. Included in the most recent auction was H. M. S. The photograph shows some of her fine steel guns being broken up.

UNIQUE USE FOR SHRAPNEL —TORN HELMETS FOUND

St. Paul, Minn., July 16.—St. Paul has found a peace-time use for the doughboys's tin hat.

A merchant here recently advertised that on a certain day each adult visiting his store would be given free of charge a doughboy's tin hat. He suggested that they make excellent flower pots.

St. Paul grabbed the suggestion—hook, line and sinker. There are now thousands of tin hat flower pots in use here.

New York, July 16.—With a large field to pick from, Charles McCarthy, 37 and a strapping specimen, selected a diminutive, gray-haired man, fellow 'LL'' passengers said, and stepped on his toes, evidently in an attempt to start something.

He did. The argument waxed hot. At the next station they got off and went to it.

CULTIVATION OF VACANT LOTS

Work Scientifically Undertaken in City Has Proved Beneficial and Profitable.

In 1899 Charles C. Grout, of the Indianapolis Charity Organization society, thought gardening a good thing and from that time until it was taken over by the Patriotic Gardeners' association, the first year of the World war—a period of 18 years—the plan was kept in operation as a branch of the charity organization work, being designated as "Vacant Lot Cultivation and Home Decoration." The "home decoration" part of it meant cleaning up and beautifying of yards by whatever means would accomplish the purpose. Franklin Vonnegut was long the chairman of the vacant lots committee, and to him and Mr. Grout in particular was largely due the good that was accomplished in those 18 years. The source of support was an annual campaign for subscriptions. These rarely if ever ran over $500. The returns, as far as the money value could be figured, were estimated at from $1,500 to $2,500, while the improvement of surroundings and the effects upon character were not to be estimated in dollars at all. Many schools, especially in parts of the city where land could be easily obtained, took up the work with zeal. In his report of 1910 Mr. Vonnegut says that the neighborhood about Christamore settlement was transformed by the work of as many as forty families that had painted or whitewashed their fences and turned their yards into gardens, and that the most direct benefit had accrued to families that had been depending on charity. The land thus cultivated that year amounted to 350 full-sized lots that would otherwise have been waste, and many of them dumping grounds for trash. The first plowing and the seeds were furnished free and the gardeners did the rest.—Indianapolis News.

ADVICE FOR HOME BUILDER

Young People May Be Too Enthusiastic, but the Project Is a Profitable One.

To the young couple just starting out in life a home of their own means, in the first place, a definite goal towards which to work, without which people are apt not to get anywhere in particular, writes a banker in the Kansas City Star.

Statistics will show that where a family is to be located permanently in a city it is cheaper to own a modest home than it is to pay present-day rentals.

The home builder will find plenty of money offered him by banks and loan companies at a very nominal interest rate, providing he is able to furnish at least one-half of the amount needed to buy his lot and erect his residence.

Any banker or reliable loan company would be glad to discuss plans and methods of financing with the prospective home-owner.

It is a good idea to use caution in attempting to buy a home beyond one's means. Sometimes the monetary enthusiasm occasioned by the chance to obtain a beautiful home at a bargain will cause the buyer to assume contracts which will be impossible for him to meet later.

Garage Should Conform to Home.

Architects and builders, as well as developers of subdivisions of class are giving serious consideration to the problem of the garage, now that we are rapidly becoming a nation of automobile owners.

Rising costs have simplified building design and people have awakened to the fact that the simpler this design and the freer from gewgaws, the prettier it is.

In this improvement it is imperative that the garage shall conform to the architecture of the house and that an owner who puts real money into his home is very foolish if he permits the unsightly "woodshed" type of garage to be built. It is as much out of place as the practice of some builders who use Spanish tile on a colonial house.

The owner should see to it that if his house is Dutch colonial his garage shall be Dutch colonial, too, and if Spanish that he gets a Spanish type garage. But whatever the type, it is to be hoped there will be a rapid disappearance of the "woodsheds."

Adversity Finds Few Friends.

Ovid finely compares a broken fortune to a falling column; the lower it sinks, the greater weight it is obliged to sustain. When a man's circumstances are such that he has no occasion to borrow, he finds numbers willing to lend him; but should his wants be such that he sues for a trifle, it is two to one whether he will be trusted with the smallest sum.—Goldsmith.

Wideawake Indiana Town.

Pendleton, Ind., though a community of only 1,500 people, has transformed an abandoned railroad fill and an unsightly rock quarry into a municipal park and swimming pool. The cost, $3,000, was repaid the first year by a 10-cent admission charge to out-of-town visitors.—Chicago Daily News.

Rumania's Unknown Hero Is Buried

Following the suit of other nations, Rumania recently buried its "Unknown Soldier" with elaborate and impressive ceremonies at Bucharest, with the entire royal family present. This photograph shows the body on the way to the tomb.

Albert Mutti and Ed Brown have filed a suit against J. Marvin Moss and Charles L. Farr for the collection of a note, dated August 13, 1921. The original note was for $320 with interest at 8 per cent. On February 25, 1922, payment of $127 was made. Suit is for the remainder with 8 per cent interest and attorney's fees.

Taken to Hospital.

The Fourth Essential

After food, clothing and shelter, the most imperative need of civilized society is transportation—quick, dependable, efficient transportation of persons and products.

After the railroad, whose sphere of activities is circumscribed by the location of tracks and terminals, the most important transportation unit is the automobile, truck or other automotive conveyances. These machines know no limitations. They can go wherever the need for transportation exists.

To keep them in action; to make it possible for them to operate under all and every condition, two things are necessary—fuel and lubricating oil.

Sensing this need, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) long ago began building distribution depots and service stations, at convenient intervals, throughout ten Middle Western states, from which the car owner could secure his requirements of gasoline and lubricants in such quantities as serve him best.

To supply these outlets, enormous investments have been made enlarging the refining facilities of the Company and millions more have been spent getting the refined products to points where effective, economical distribution can be made.

Throughout the ten states where Standard Oil Company (Indiana) service is organized and in operation, the motorist will find a station every few miles in the country; every few blocks in the city.

At these stations he can secure his gasoline and lubricants of highest quality at the lowest market prices and he has at his command free air, free water, rest rooms and comfort stations.

Conveniently located throughout the territory served, these stations are practical symbols of the effort this Company is making to adequately serve a community of thirty million people.

Wife Against Wife at Empire Tonight

The production is one of the most elaborate thus far filmed by Whitman Bennett. The settings are splendid and the Parisian atmosphere is well carried out.

Appearing opposite Pauline Starke in the leading male roles are Percy Marmont, who is seen as an artist, and Edward Largford, who has the role of a physician. Both are in love with the little French Model.

Tuberculosis Control Improving in Missouri

Control of tuberculosis in livestock in Missouri is proceeding so well that the state is becoming one of the first in the nation, now standing first in number of cattle having received one test.

The report of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture at the ending of May, 1923, shows in the summary of tuberculosis state-federal eradication work that Missouri stands as follows in comparison with the other states:

Fourth in number of herds tested during month; 4th in number of cattle tested; 17th in number reacting as found tuberculosis; 2nd in number of herds tested once; and 1st in number of cattle tested once; 13th in number of accredited herds, and 12th in number of accredited cattle; 3rd in number in herds under supervision, and 2nd in cattle under supervision; 2nd in number of herds on the waiting list, and 3rd in number of cattle on waiting list.

This work in Missouri is in charge of State Veterinarian Dr. Homer A. Wilson of the State Board of Agriculture in co-operation with Chief B. A. I. Inspector Dr. Ralph Graham of the United States Department of Agriculture.—Missouri Market Bulletin.

College Students Make Model Town

A model town in miniature was made by the hand work department of the College as a part of its semester's work this summer. The town is now arranged on display in the class room and many students are inspecting it. The class is taught by Miss Mary Fisher of Columbia. The town was made for the purpose of the student illustrating stories and other work to the schools next winter.

Probably the most interesting of the model buildings furnished was the Paris Hat Shop. All day long the girls of the College inspected the dainty crepe hats which are displayed in the store windows and received tips on the coming styles.

The Dew Drop Inn was surrounded by thirsty students and many envious glances were thrown at the soda fountain and ice cream parlor which the Inn afforded its customers. The soda fountain was constructed of modeling clap but the building, including a balcony, was made by the students. The floor of the building was even tiled and the walls papered.

The "Rexall Drug Store" was running competition to the Dew Drop Inn in the way of a soda fountain and was also equipped with candy and drugs for all.

Froys Bros. Cash and Carry store was equipped with all sorts of summer fruits and even the bunch of bananas suspended from the ceiling.

There were several modern and old Dutch houses in the display. One of the Dutch houses was divided and the cows shared half of the house with the family. Golden Locks and the Three Bears occupied one of the homes.

The village church was greeted with only a passing glance and one girl was heard to remark that she got enough of church on Sunday. However, the students had arranged an ideal church with the choir benches, the pews and the pulpit. A large belfry was constructed on the roof.

E. E. Lloyd Invents New Auto Carrier

Eldon E. Lloyd of the Brumbaugh and Lloyd radio supply shop has recently invented a patent autombile extension carrier which he plans to place on the market soon. Mr. Lloyd said in commenting on his invention that it was produced for the purpose of providing an attachment to carry larger barrels and sacks to and from town for the farmers and when not in use to be able to slide out of the way.

One of the novel ideas assembled in his scheme was to have the apparatus slide out about five inches past the running board so as to accomodate larger articles which here-to-fore could not be placed on the running board.

The carrier is constructed of angle iron and is made in different sizes in order to accomodate larger and smaller running boards. It will lay flat on the running board when not in use but when pulled out it will be nine inches high and can be made to extend five inches over the edge of the running board.

The Brumbaugh and Lloyd shop have moved into their new location on 416 North Main. They will have some of the new carriers on the market within ten days.

May Legislate to Extend 3-Mile Limit

Washington, July 16—If the state department is not able to get foreign nations to agree to extend the American right of seizure of liquor from three to twelve miles as an additional protection against rum-running ships, then legislation to extend the 3-mile limit for the purpose of prohibition enforcement will be introduced at the beginning of the 68th Congress, Senator Sterling of S. Dak, announced today.

News From Over The County

Hopkins Journal

W. O. Greer and family of Clarkston, Wash., who have been visiting in the home of Mrs. John D. Miller, left Tuesday for Omaha to make a short visit before returning to their western home.

The Men's Bible Class raised $75 last Sunday for the purchase of electric fans for the church. The Win One Class is so sure of winning the contest that they have increased the fund to $85. The fans will cost about $100. Several have made personal donations and any others who wish to help may hand their money to Mr. Gordon or Mr. Sayler.

Wednesday, just after the noon hour, the Buick car driven by Dr. Eula Bates of Hopkins and the Ford Coupe driven by Harold Bristow collided at the foot of the main street hill near the depot. The Ford came from the west, turning north at the foot of the hill, striking the back of the Bristow car. Both cars suffered bent fenders.—Bedford Free Press.

Glen Jeffers had some bad luck last Saturday when the four horses he had hitched to the binder became frightened and ran away, and while he nor none of the horses were hurt, the binder was so badly damaged he was kept out of his grain several days waiting for repairs.

You May be Wrong.

Cincinnati, July 16.—If you see a man with a buiging hip pocket, be careful how you come to certain conclusions about it. It may be his Bible. An official of the Salvation Army says there are more people today interested in the Bible than ever before. The book, according to this person, is very generally carried and very often by people where the Bible would be looked for last.

About Co-operative Marketing

The final goal in co-operative marketing of farm products, which the farmers of the United States are trying to reach in the co-operative marketing movement which is sweeping the country now, declared Mr. Walton Peteet, Director of Co-operative Marketing for the American Farm Bureau Federation, is the substitution of a system of orderly merchandizing of farm products for the old wasteful and expensive system of dumping and blind selling. Under the present system Mr. Peteet explained the farmer dumps his products on to the market all at one time. The product which must last the consumer for a full year, the farmer throws onto the market during the few days when it is harvested. What would happen to the merchant who would insist on his customers taking a year's supply of groceries, for example, at one time? The customer would buy them at a price that would pay him well to invest ina full year's supply of groceries. Mr. Peteet thinks that practically teh same thing happens when the farmer sells a year's supply of wheat, wool or other products at one time. He gets enough less for his products to make it very profitable for the middle men to take all his products at one time and gradually feed it out to the consumer. Mr. Peteet insists that the farmer, through co-operative marketing should undertake to merchandise his products in an orderly manner as they are needed by the consumers.

Another bad feature of the farmers marketing at present is that he sells his products blindly, having no knowledge of the supply or of conditions which will affect the demand for his products. Such information however is always in the possession of the agencies who buy his products. Through cooperative organization, such information might be obtained, so that the individual farmer could profit by the information obtained through his co-operative organization.

The modern system of co-operative marketing, according to Mr. Peteet, is the commodity organization. Eventually farmers will have one organization, nation-wide, to market wheat, another national organization will market livestock, another organization national in scope, will give its entire attention to the marketing of wool and so on. It is essential that the organization be national in scope, thus eliminating competition between local co-operatives which would be practically as bad as the present competition between individuals. With certain products international organization of farmers is already considered and recognized as needed. A very necessary feature of the modern co-operative organization, built on comodity lines is the producers contract to deliver all of his product to the organization for a period of years. Without such a contract, experience has shown that most surely doomed to association is most surely doomed to failure. Peteet has a very hopeful attitude toward farmers' co-operative marketing enterprises giving the example of California Fruit Growers' organizations, Southern Cotton Growers, Rice Growers and especially Tobacco Growers, with 240,000 men contracting to sell all their tobacco through the organization. All these are cited as successful demonstrations of the principle of comodity marketing organizations. In fact, Mr. Peteet says there have been fewer failures among farmers co-operative marketing organizations than there have been among banks or other private business organizations.

Girl Advertising Agent Will Represent Women

Katherine H. Mahool, Young Baltimore Woman, is First of Her Sex to Represent Organization

By Barrow B. Lyons

Baltimore, July 14—Katherine H. Mahool, attractive young Baltimore woman, will be the first of her sex to represent in Europe a large and important organization of American professional women.

At the recent Atlantic City convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World she was selected by the women's advertising clubs of the country to represent them on the executive board of the international body. That was the highest honor which could be conferred upon a woman in the advertising profession and it was the second time she had received it.

So next year, when the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World meet in London, she will be the official representative of all of the women in her profession in America.

Miss Mahool is very modest. She declares she has no message to give the world and expects to have none. She is not an evangelist nor reformer—but those who have watched her career in Baltimore realize that nevertheless she always does have a message—the message of good, hard-headed common sense—and she is a worker.

In Front Rank

An unusual combination of intellectual and "human" qualities has brought this young woman, still in her twenties, to the front ranks of her profession in a remarkably short time. Only five years ago she first became connected with the advertising business as copy writer for a Baltimore department store; but a Celtic nimbleness of wit, combined with a broad humanity and unusual balance, has opened doors to her so rapidly that she now manages a successful advertising agency of her own, as well as having attained highest honors in the representative organization of her profession.

Her first job was addressing envelopes, at $6 a week, in the office of a belting company. Advancing step by step, she held a secretarial position in an insurance company in 1918, when she read the notice of the advertising manager of a department store calling for a woman who could write about women's clothes.

Up to that time she had written nothing much except her personal correspondence and a little "stunt" writing for friends. Applications for the department store position being few and her enthusiasm being high, she managed to land the job. At the end of a week she was so scared with her responsibilities that she wanted to quit, but the manager persuaded her to stay by offering an increase in salary.

Joined "ad" Agency

After having been with the department store for 18 months she decided that experience in an agency was the next step, so she camped out on the doorstep of one of the largest local agencies until they let her in. After an experience with another agency, where she superintended all of the copy writing, she was engaged to do the advertising for a large wholesaler of women's wear.

With this varied experience and with many friends she had made among merchants and other advertisers, she opened her own office in 1920 and from the beginning was successful.

Two years ago she was elected president of the Women's Advertising Club of Baltimore and still holds that office. Last year she was elected for the first time to the executive board of the Advertising Clubs of the World and was again elected this year.

Although Miss Mahool entered a business office directly upon leaving high school she has continued her academic education every year by taking courses at Johns Hopkins University in the evenings. She believes that the freedom she has exercised in selecting only those courses which interest her most has been of greater benefit to her than if she had pursued a regular college course in which much of the curriculum was prescribed by college rules.

Says It's Work.

When pressed for the secret of her success, Miss Mahool declares it is due to nothing but hard work. Being modest, she refuses to admit that behind the hard work is a mental dynamo productive of some of the best ideas in advertising, an inexhaustible sense of humor, even when the joke is upon herself, and a friendly attitude toward the world and people in general.

There is latent also a fiery streak of fighting blood—inherited, perhaps, from her ancestors of the Scotch Highlands, several generations removed—but that is apparent far less frequently than the friendly smile.

Pimples

BLOOD impurities are pumped by the heart into the face. That is what causes that grainy appearance, that muddiness, sallowness, pimples, blackheads, acne, red spots, and that impossible "something" which no face cream, massage, or face powder can cover up or beautify! The foundation for a beautiful skin simply is not there, and no face treatment can give it to you. But increase your red-blood-cells,—and quickly the ruby tint of purity begins to glow in the cheeks, the complexion becomes venus-like and immaculate! Try it. It will do it every time. S. S. S. builds the red-blood-cells you need for a beautiful complexion. Begin using S. S. S. at once, and give yourself what you have been working for, for years.

Medical Director Tells of Hospitals

Farmington, Mo., July 16.—Dr. Geo. P. Ard, medical director of all six eleemosynary institutions of Missouri, in explaining the care of the patients, said the secret of caring for them is to keep them busy doing something. When first entering the patients will sit around the rooms with drooped heads and with a downcast look in their faces, but if they are given something to do they soon get out of this mood. Probably the very elementary kind of work will be given them at first, but they will soon learn to weave baskets, rugs and do small carpenter work.

State Hospital No. 4 owns 391 acres and leases 12,000 acres. There are nineteen buildings belonging to the institution. There are now 846 patients of whom sixty are ex-service men, and one entire building is given over to their care.

In former years each institution was run by a local board and was used more or less as a political tool, but the legislature in 1921 removed these boards and put the control of the six eleemosynary institutions into the hands of a central board of control, consisting of six democrats and six republicans.

For the first time in the history of these institutions the board has not asked for a deficiency appropriation. Since the new board has been in control politics has been removed and all methods of restraint removed.

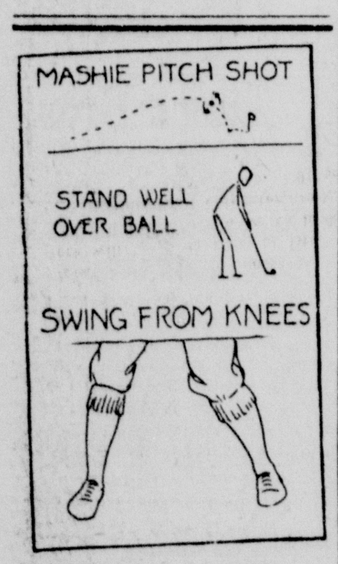
The new board has added graduate nurses and women doctors to the institutions and has established a central laboratory in Fulton that serves al six institutions.

There has been an annual increase of thirty patients to this institution. The agres of the patients range from 18 to 80 years.

The institution is run on the cottage plan and is the only one in the state that uses this method at present. Not two of the buildings are alike in structure or appearance. A new $65,000 cottage is under construction and will be completed within the next two months.

Most of the buildings have no bars on the windows. It is the plan of the board to remove all bars. In doing this the whole institution will be made more homelike and more unlike a prison.

Golf Pointers



What are the important points in the mashie pitch shot?

Answered by

JIM BARNES

American open champion, 1921; recognized everywhere as one of the greatest golfers in the world. In British open championship, 1922, he finished second, one stroke behind Walter Hagen, the winner.

In playing the mashie pitch shot, stand well over the ball and keep the feet fairly close together, making sure that they are absolutely flat on the ground. Work the swing from the knees and avoid over-swinging and trying for distance, use a half swing back, with the left arm controlling all through the swing. Keep a firm grip on the club all through the swing.

Bethany Increases Its Water Rates

Bethany, Mo., July 16—The rich town of Bethany, Harrison County, northwest Missouri, has ordered a 50 per cent increase in the municipal water rate, from 40 to 60 cents per 1,000 gallons, effective July 1. The city water plant had been losing money so the city council elected to increase the rate instead of making up water plant deficits from the general tax fund.

Consumers who have hot water installations must install special hot water meters because the council stated, live steam had ruined many cold water meters.

The Bethany council also directed that rates for electric current generated in the municipal plant be changed, so that instead of paying a flat rate of 15 cents per kilowatt hour, consumers will enjoy a sliding scale which will vary from 15 to 13 cents per kilowatt hour. This is in line with approved private operation.

The Bethany city council intends to run the city on approved business lines, making the municipally owned utilities pay their own ways in the direct form of rates instead of permitting them to lose money by charging too low rates then appropriating money from the general taxation fund to make good deficits caused by the too low rates municipalities not infrequently do.
